We work to understand how many phishing emails you receive and how you react to them in the first instant, this helps us understand how to cater your campaigns to your organisation. Our target is to create something as real as possible. It all has to be catered to you.

3 Establish a baseline

Our initial campaign will help us establish a baseline. This allows us to understand your current risk and where improvements can be made.

With additional campaigns you will be able to understand the improvements your staff have made in dealing with phishing emails. Track your exposure to phishing throughout the year
